

Name: Aaron Tobey

Courses Taught (beginning Fall 16):

DME2100 D Between Bits and Bricks: Architecture and Computational Tools

Educational Credentials

BS. Arch., University of Cincinnati, 2011

M. Arch., Rhode Island School of Design, 2015

Teaching Experience

Adjunct Faculty, Rhode Island School of Design, 2016

Adjunct Faculty, Roger Williams University, 2016

Graduate Faculty, Rhode Island School of Design, 2013-2015

Professor, University of Illinois, Chicago, 2006-present

Professional Experience

3D Artist, Studio AMD, Providence, RI, 2013-present

Intern Architect, Fougeron Architecture, San Francisco, CA, 2010

Intern Architect, Atwood Architects, Charlottesville, VA, 2009

Project Manager, SEIU Community Projects, Cincinnati, OH, 2009

Intern Architect, Hamady Architects, Charlottesville, VA, 2008

Selected Publications and Recent Research

Bias by Design (Architecture, Natures and Data Conference), Tallinn, Estonia, April 2017

A Feigned Translucence (ACSA Annual Meeting), Detroit, MI, March 2017

Architecture at Sea: Containers, Capitalism, and Imaginations of Space (Architecture and Culture, Routledge), May 2017

Nostalgia for a Non-Existent Now (Dialectic V: Vernacular, University of Utah), May 2017

Architecture's Everything (Thresholds 45: Myth, MIT), May 2017

Digital Polity in Cincinnati (Digital Cultural Ecologies Conference), Bristol, UK, April 2016

Rhode Island School of Design Alumni Travel Award, 2016

Rhode Island School of Design Graduate Studies Grant, 2015